

HUMAN SCIENCES IN EUROPE

Program Description:

This exciting program leads students involved in Fashion Design & Merchandising and Human Development & Family Sciences across Europe to experience our human condition in an international setting. This trip will offer two tracks: Fashion Design & Merchandising and Human Development & Family Science. Fashion Design & Merchandising students will visit luxury retailers, textile mills, Savile Row tailors; and many more. Human Development & Science students will engage with Montessori preschools, non-profit family programs, early education experiential learning, volunteer opportunities, and experience the family unit like never before! All programs will get to enjoy and savor all that these major European cities have to offer, including group dinners (2), sight-seeing tours, excursions into the English and Tuscan countrysides, and entrance into bucket-list worthy attractions. These experiences combined with must-see sites and locales will make this truly the trip of a lifetime! Open to all majors interested in European culture and the Human Experience.
